

Régimes de sécurité sociale dans le monde – 1995

This annex outlines the current programmes in social security systems in Asia and the Pacific, and reproduces the charts appearing in the publication Social Security Programs Throughout the World – 1993 (SSPTW), published by the Social Security Administration of the United States. The information used to update these charts was obtained for the most part in conjunction with the two-yearly survey conducted by the Research and Documentation Branch of the ISSA. The data published in this document reflect the situation as at 1 January 1993, unless otherwise specified. With respect to the following countries — Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, Tadjikistan and Uzbekistan — complete and accurate information was not readily available and has therefore not been included in this document.

The country summaries show each social security system's major features divided into old-age, disability, death; sickness and maternity; work injury; unemployment; and family allowances. Each branch is subdivided into coverage, source of funds, qualifying conditions, benefits and administrative organisation. In addition, information about the date of legislation, the type of programme and the rate of exchange is indicated.

Please consult the "Guide to Reading the Country Summaries" of the publication SSPTW for more details concerning the format of country summaries, and types of programmes covered.

The reader of this document should be aware of the fact that because of the rapid changes still taking place in some countries of the region, further amendments to existing legislation in a number of countries are likely. In addition, the information received could not in all cases be verified and for some countries, it is not complete. Therefore, the ISSA welcomes any comments, including copies of relevant documentation to complete and up-date this summary. Participants who wish to provide us with such comments or information, including on countries which are not covered here, may write to:
